

STORY NAME: LITTLE KAMALI

DESCRIPTION ABOUT OUR STORY

Our story is about a young boy called Kamali, who had a family before 1994. He had parents and good neighbors who lived together in peace.

When, the Genocide against Tutsi occurred parents were both killed by their neighbor who was also their friend. Kamali managed to escape but he lived in misery, anguish and trauma after that experience. He had to go through counselling for him to be well again. After getting better, Kamali took the first step to forgive the one who killed his family and live in harmony.

THE EVIDENCE OF OUR STORY

This story is not based on a true story, but instead it is an idea that came from different testimonies of people who were there and who survived Genocide Against Tutsi in 1994.

THE EXPERIENCE

To the people who participated in the story, it was emotional and also hard for them to act in repetition to what happened in the past as it is a sensitive story. On the other hand, it was also a good experience for them to be part of such an amazing project like that and contribute to it as the Rwandan youth.
